Contents

(This is not a) Foreword ix
Mariolina Rizzi Salvatori

Acknowledgments xiii

1. Locating Composition History 1
Gretchen Flesher Moon

2. Thinking Like That: The Ideal Nineteenth-Century Student Writer 14
Kathleen A. Welsch

3. (The Teaching of) Reading and Writing at Lafayette College 38
Patricia Donahue and Bianca Falbo

4. A Chair "Perpetually Filled by a Female Professor": Rhetoric and Composition Instruction at Nineteenth-Century Butler University 58
Heidemarie Z. Weidner

5. Vida Scudder in the Classroom and in the Archives 77
Julie Garbus

6. Mid-Nineteenth-Century Writing Instruction at Illinois State Normal University: Credentials, Correctness, and the Rise of a Teaching Class 94
Kenneth Lindblom, William Banks, and Risë Quay

7. The Platteville Papers Revisited: Gender and Genre in a Normal School Writing Assignment 115
Kathryn Fitzgerald

8. “Our Life’s Work”: Rhetorical Preparation and Teacher Training at a Massachusetts State Normal School, 1839–1929 134
Beth Ann Rothermel

© 2007 University of Pittsburgh Press. All rights reserved.
Contents

9. Life in the Margins: Student Writing and Curricular Change at Fitchburg Normal, 1895–1910
   Patrice K. Gray
   159

10. William Rainey Harper and the Ideology of Service at Junior Colleges
    William DeGenaro
    181

11. The Progressive Faculty/Student Discourse of 1969–1970 and the Emergence of Lincoln University’s Writing Program
    Jeffrey L. Hoogeveen
    199

12. Disciplinary Histories: A Meditation on Beginnings
    Patricia Donahue
    220

   Afterword
   Jean Ferguson Carr
   237

   Works Cited, Secondary Sources
   241

   List of Contributors
   251

   Index
   255