2017 CENTRAL EURASIA IN CONTEXT

UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH PRESS
The Force of Custom
Law and the Ordering of Everyday Life in Kyrgyzstan
JUDITH BEYER

Through this finely textured ethnographic study, Beyer shows how local Kyrgyz negotiate proper behavior and regulate disputes by invoking custom, known as salt. While salt is presented as age-old tradition, it’s also a flexible rhetorical strategy that people adapt to suit contemporary political, legal, economic, and religious environments.

Despite Cultures
Early Soviet Rule in Tajikistan
BOTAKOZ KASSYMBEKOVA

Examines the strategies and realities of the Soviet state-building project in Tajikistan during the 1920s and 1930s. As Kassymbekova reveals, the local ruling system was built upon an intricate network of individuals, whose stated loyalty to Communism was monitored through a chain of command that stretched from Moscow to Tashkent to Dushanbe/Stalinabad.

Practicing Islam
Knowledge, Experience, and Social Navigation in Kyrgyzstan
DAVID W. MONTGOMERY

Montgomery offers the most thorough English-language study to date of Islam in post-Soviet Kyrgyzstan. He assembles both an anthropology of knowledge and an anthropology of Islam, demonstrating how individuals make sense of and draw meanings from their environments, and how becoming and being a Muslim is based on acquired knowledge, enabled through the practice of doing.

The State as Investment Market
Kyrgyzstan in Comparative Perspective
JOHAN ENGVALL

Based on a detailed examination of Kyrgyzstan, Johan Engvall goes well beyond the case of this single country to elaborate a broad theory of economic corruption in developing post-Soviet states regionally—as a rational form of investment market for political elites.

Winner of the 2011 Central Eurasian Studies Society Book Award in History and the Humanities
Stronski tells the fascinating story of Tashkent, an ethnically diverse, primarily Muslim city that became the prototype for the Soviet-era reimagining of urban centers in Central Asia. Stronski shows how Soviet officials, planners, and architects strived to integrate local ethnic traditions and socialist ideology into a newly constructed urban space and propaganda showcase.

Chaos, Violence, Dynasty
Politics and Islam in Central Asia
ERIC MCGLINCHEY

A compelling study of the divergent political courses taken by Kyrgyzstan, Uzbekistan, and Kazakhstan in the wake of Soviet rule. McGlinchey examines economics, religion, political legacies, foreign investment, and the ethnicity of these countries to evaluate the relative success of political structures in each nation.

Speaking Soviet with an Accent
Culture and Power in Kyrgyzstan
ALI İĞMEN
2012 • 248 pp.
978-0-8229-6206-9 • Paper $27.95
Item No. 508 • Sale Price $19.97
eBook available
The first English-language study of Soviet culture clubs in Kyrgyzstan. These clubs profoundly influenced the future of Kyrgyz cultural identity and fostered the work of many artists. Ali İğmen also chronicles the remarkable agency of the Kyrgyz people, who employed available resources to meld their own heritage with Soviet and Russian ideologies and form artistic expressions that continue to influence Kyrgyzstan today.
Twenty years after independence, we still struggle to understand the revival and transformation of Islam in Central Asia, as it evolves through a complex and dynamic process that includes diversity in belief and practice, religious authority, and political intervention. This volume sheds new light on these crucial questions by bringing together an international group of scholars.

Azan on the Moon
Entangling Modernity along Tajikistan’s Pamir Highway
TILL MOSTOWLANSKY
Spring 2017 • 216 pp.
A fascinating and engaging ethnographic exploration of how modernity impacts and is perceived by ordinary people who live and work along the Pamir Highway — the Route 66 of Central Asia.

Nationalism in Central Asia
A Biography of the Uzbekistan-Kyrgyzstan Boundary
NICK MEGORAN
Spring 2017 • 368 pp.
Explores the process of building independent nation-states in post-Soviet Central Asia through the lens of the boundary between Uzbekistan and Kyrgyzstan, using a combination of political, historical, ethnographic, and geographic frames to shed new light on this process.

From Belonging to Belief
Modern Secularisms and the Construction of Religion in Kyrgyzstan
JULIE MCBRIEN
Analyzes contemporary religion and secularity to draw a rich, three-dimensional picture of changing attitudes in a small Uzbek town and its implications for the region — and the wider Islamic world.

Central Asia in Context
A Thematic Introduction to the Region
