

CONTENTS

Introduction: Media, Sound, and Culture
Alejandra Bronfman & Andrew Grant Wood
ix

PART I. EMBODIED SOUNDS AND THE SOUNDS OF MEMORY

1. Recovering Voices: The Popular Music Ear in Late Nineteenth-and Early Twentieth-Century Brazil
Fernando de Sousa Rocha
3
2. Radio Transvestism and the Gendered Soundscape in Buenos Aires, 1930s–1940s
Christine Ehrick
18

PART II. THE MEDIA OF POLITICS

3. How to Do Things with Waves: United States Radio and Latin America in the Times of the Good Neighbor

Gisela Cramer

37

4. Weapons of the Geek: Romantic Narratives, Sonic Technologies, and Tinkerers in 1930s Santiago, Cuba

Alejandra Bronfman

55

5. Music, Media Spectacle, and the Idea of Democracy: The Case of DJ Kermit's "Góber"

Alejandro L. Madrid

71

PART III. THE SONICS OF PUBLIC SPACES

6. Alba: Musical Temporality in the Carnival of Oruro, Bolivia

Gonzalo Araoz

87

7. Such a Noise! Fireworks and the Soundscapes of Two Veracruz Festivals

Andrew Grant Wood

103

- Postscript. Sound Representation: Nation, Translation, Memory

Michele Hilmes

122

Notes

127

Contributors

163

Index

167